Vehicular homicide, drugged driving nets woman jail time

By Matt Snyder

FINDLEY TOWNSHIP — The wife of trucker Charles H. Payton Sr., Glen Burnie, Md., testified at the sentencing of Payton's killer, a Harrisville woman who hit him with her pickup in 2007 while overdosed on prescription medication.

Lou Ellen Payton tearfully told the court Friday that Payton was the love of her life. "I love him every day, I miss him every day."

She called her husband an average working guy who was just out trying to do his job. On Oct. 15, 2007, he had pulled his tractor-trailer off the eastbound ramp of Interstate 79 at the Interstate 80 junction in Findley Township.

That's when Heidi May Wise, 33, who had five times the appropriate dosage of the anti-anxiety medication Xanax in her system, hit Payton and sent him flying 100 feet through the air, police said. He died at the scene.
